Everybody is talking of the possibility that the period of depression, which has now lasted some thirteen years, is at last drawing to a close; but though there is hopefulness abroad, and a sort of smell as of spring in the commercial air. nobody, so far as we see, feels quite certain yet. Even Lord Randolph Churchill, though he was so comically cheery at Dartford about isinglass and rather hoped for the good times which would so greatly help his Government and his own career as Chancellor of the Exchequer, than expected their arrival. He evidently did not want his speech to be quoted against him two years hence. The Revenue Returns, no doubt. are "not unsatisfactory," the Clearing House Returns are "decidedly hopeful," and railway traffice, especially in the south, are "improving." Onearticle, wool, has risen in price most markedly; one metal, copper, has risen a little; and in several trades, especially the Mincing Lane group, there is a fidgetty watchfulness, as if buyers without stooks were afraid of being caught by a grand rise. All that is satisfactory, and may mean, if the rise continues, that a cycle of prosperity is at hand; but it does not as yet amount to very much Some little trades, and one big one, are prospering; but the prospects of some great industries, such as agriculture and shipowning, were never worse, the prospects of others, such as ironfounding and mining for tin and lead, are hardly clearer than they have been for years, while the prices of solid securities on the Stock Exchange keep up in a way which always indicates that sary for him to call any evidence, as the plain. trade is not rapidly absorbing capital. In an article on the tithe difficulty in Wales. in the October number of the Congregationalist, the following story is told as "extremely significant of the tendency of popular opinion in Wales." The writer says :- A few days ago we had a conversation on a railway platform with a Welsh farmer, which was extremely suggestive. "I know a farmer's wife over the hill there." said my friend, "and the parson came to collect tithe. She said to him, "Parson, I have eleven children; will you take one of them? You take the tenth pig; will you have the tenth child?" The argument seemed to the farmer quite convincing, and the story seemed to be very keenly appreciated by a number of bystanders.

I learn (says: arrespondent) that the British artist is in a sad plight. All the world knows that no pictures, or very few, were sold at the Academy this year. Nor is this the worst of it. The recent outcry against. English art and against the Royal Academy has frightened away buyers, both English and American. The latter, too, were becoming hundsome patrons of our art schools. To cut a long story short, pictures are not selling. Customers cannot be found, even though half the usual price only is asked, and dealers and pawn brokers have had their fingers burnt. They find that they sannot get back anything like the amounts advanced upon the works of well-known men. Studies, both in town and country, are coming into the market, and artists are coming into the court of bankruptcy.

POST-OFFICE NOTICES

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or the terms and conditions of the Company's delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to --- , or Received at 7 p.pt., or as the case may be, and forward it. without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally given more trouble in the end.

LOCAL DELIVERY-No delivery is attempted on board Ship, at the Peak, Kowloon, Aberdeen, LAND RAILWAYS, AND TOUCHING AT &c., nor at any private house (even though named in the address) when there is a place of business nearer, at which delivery can be effected.
